

There's a bright future waiting for you on California's beautiful Central Coast

California's breathtaking natural attractions are not the only stars on the Central Coast. Equally impressive are the top-trained medical professionals at Natividad Medical Center, a 172-bed teaching hospital with a Joint Commission ranking in the top percentile of hospitals nationwide. When you bring your career to Natividad, you'll join a facility that is affiliated with the University of California San Francisco with the area's only Life-Flight helicopter service and Trauma Center, as well as one of the County's first Community Level III NICUs.

PROJECT MANAGER I Full-Time

We currently have a permanent full-time opportunity in our Engineering Department for a Project Manager I to be responsible for managing multiple concurrent projects that are typically less complex and smaller in size, scope, budget and/or impact. The successful candidate will help define project needs and develop project scope; work with architects, engineers, contractors and/or other professional consultants to evaluate, define and/or design work solutions and project specifications; obtain contractors by researching vendors and requesting and evaluating bids and proposals; inspect project work for compliance with work specifications and contracts, process change orders and conduct pre-final inspections; confer with management and provide technical advice on the potential impact of projects; and establish and maintain contacts with internal and external stakeholders.

Qualified candidates will have a Bachelor's degree in Architecture, Civil or Structural Engineering, Construction Administration, Business Administration, Public Administration or a related field OR 4 years of administrative experience which includes significant work experience in project management. A CA driver's license and satisfactory driving record are required. The successful candidate will also have the ability to develop and administer a project budget; interpret and apply codes, regulations, laws, policies, procedures and guidelines; manage multiple concurrent projects; perform contract negotiations; and utilize personal computers and software.
